PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF
JUNE 1939 OF ERASMUS HALL HIGH SCHOOL

Allen County Public Library
900 Webster Street
PO Box 2270
Fort Wayne, IN 46801-2270

To Mr. Rohrberg, our friend, teacher, and adviser, in grateful appreciation for the invaluable guidance and helpful advice so willingly given, we, the Class of June 1939, dedicate this book.

To the Members of the Class of June 1939:

Heartiest congratulations upon the successful completion of your work here and best wishes for continued success in the years ahead. Your family and your community have made it possible for you to enjoy four years of high school education in this Old School. You have, in general, succeeded in proportion to your ability and your effort. Whether you go on to college to continue your studies or enter the active work-a-day world upon graduation, you will soon have an opportunity to play your part in the life of our city, state, and country. Today, life is so complex and so infinite in possibilities that to meet our responsibilities we must be prepared in knowledge, in character, and in effective habits of thinking and doing.

You approach maturity and the responsibilities of adult citizenship at a time when many are confused by false philosophies and specious solutions of the problems confronting us. Propagandists with all sorts of panaceas for our ills exhort us to follow them to security and safety. In the moral and intellectual turmoil that life is today, may I urge you to hold fast to the best that you have been taught, to use your minds to discover truth, to refuse to be stampeded by clamor, and to remain at all times straight-thinking, right-acting young people. Only as the level of personal character in public life is raised shall we solve the problems that today seem so baffling. The world needs your help in working out these solutions.

Your teachers and your friends wish you every success and every possible happiness in the fruitful years that lie ahead of you.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN F. MC NEILL

Class History

This noble epitaph we hereby erect on the "baccampus" for future reference,

And before which we expect (and hope) all future Freshmen to "s(a)laam" in deference.

First may we present our most fervent apologies to one Mr. Ogden Nash

For the liberties herein taken which we must admit are rather rash. Trolley cars, omnibuses, taxis, and feet deposited us at the door of the Annex,

And as we trudged noisily to the fourth floor we gained the reputation of being general pains in the nex.

Sophomores sold us the Dutchman, the Vox Classica, the Papyrus, football tickets, footlighter tickets, and we bought everything for each of us was a little lamb;

And as a strike against our perpetual hunger one of our English classes wrote a parody about the Freshmen coming down like the egg on the ham.

They sent us mimeographed sheets of football songs, but we never managed to learn the refrains,

But since we lost to Madison, Manual, and Boys, and tied Hamilton we never did get a chance to sing to our victory at the games.

When changing classes, in honor of the grade school downstairs, we weren't supposed to talk in the halls,

And we walked in single file and carried our books in our left hands, so that we wouldn't scratch up the walls.

Came second term and we entered the Flatbush Arch and stood gazing at our cherished Desiderius;

This is how Freshies always are recognized, wide-eyed, mouth gaping, and frowns so serious.

We traversed the campus, both front and back, from Studio G to the Hancock lab,

And found that the line outside Miss Hodgdon's office, the library, Newman's, and Steffen's, were the places to gather and gab.

Seniors insulted us, and sent us to Gym 57 instead of 425.

And our teachers scolded us with knowing looks when we finally did arrive.

We found ourselves crushed beneath the cafeteria and lunchroom hordes

And learned how to fight our way over to look up the daily specials (which were moderately priced at ten cents) on the bulletin boards.

In the spring there was a concert, flowers, fever, and exams,
Which was the only time none of us wanted to be an upper-classman who undoubtedly crams.

Third term, we flaunted our shining new "sophomority"
In the faces of little Freshmen whom we scorned and misdirected and who still looked up to our superiority.

We discovered phonetics in our English course Which would have been much better left alone, since it was no clearer to us than the code of Samuel F. B. Morse.

Some of us started to work for Mr. Rohrberg and flourished our little red pencils,

And naively wondered what person could produce so many stencils.

We joined many clubs, and followed up Rostra and Senate,

And faithfully attended each Friday night debate.

Many of us made Junior Arista, and there was the usual, wonderful Christmas concert, after which we exchanged season's greetings,

And attended endless program committee meetings.

Sorry, but nothing much happened in the fourth term because we were in a haze

Since with Regents 'round the bend, all you can do is groan and count the "daze."

Fifth was the heyday of our grade as it was for the rest of the school

What with the Pageant in which we took part, our sesquicentennial celebration.

It kaleidoscoped the history of Flatbush accompanied by war dances, verse choirs, waltzes, minuets, and the never-to-be-forgotten horse who deserted his station.

We voted in the primaries, for the first time, and took a course in Social Forms once each week

And learned what to say, when to tip our hats, and how to be divinely meek.

The National Association of Student Officers, ably led by Erasmus Hall, met at International House, a favorable location.

Grade 7 was the pinnacle of our political career;

Almost all of us ran for G.O. office; some of us got as far as the platform and beamed with honeyed smiles sincere,

Some of us were even elected!

We filed countless applications for college,

And found that what we really needed besides passes, campus chatter fame, charm bracelets, trylons and perispheres, and crises,

Was a bit of that recently discovered phenomenon, called knowledge.

Having supported our Senior Hop and hoping for a Senior Prom,

We ceased to consider Arch Patrols, up-staircases, and busied our advanced brains, sharpened by scholastic aptitude tests, with (velly solly, Mr. Wells) things to come.

Girls' Sports

AS THE YEARS have rolled on, girls have finally earned their rightful position in the world of sports. Basketball was the first sport played by girls in Erasmus Hall. In 1906 the seniors, instructed by Mrs. Edgell, made their debut in dribbling, juggling, and sinking the ball into the basket. Later this sport was opened to girls in every grade. Every one has his "Waterloo" and this senior class is no exception. This is the only sport in which we have not quite mastered the technique of team work. The results of the round robin basketball tournaments planned by head coach, Marjorie Weideman, and her assistant, Rose Perrone, showed that this was true.

Three years after basketball was introduced in Erasmus Hall, Miss Turner told the students of an English game called hockey. Teams were formed and today it is the most popular of all the girls' sports. Women's Hockey Leagues have been formed which are a goal for many an Erasmus Hall hockey player. When the players of our senior class were mere freshmen, with but a few weeks' practice, their team was victorious over the Sophomore and the Junior teams. This same team was the runner-up in the hockey tournaments held in Prospect Park last fall. The spring coaching schedule, which was planned by the head hockey coach, Jeanne Neubecker, and assistant, Roberta Morgan, provided for an adequate number of coaches to aid the girls during the practice season.

In 1915, about the time women were giving up the idea of wading and were going in for swimming in earnest, a small group of girls went to Public School 89 in the afternoon with Miss Guerin to practice their swimming. In 1925 our own Erasmus pool was opened and a year later swimming became compulsory, for each girl had to pass a swimming test before being able to graduate. Later swimming teams and Junior and Senior Life Saving classes were formed. Many of the graduates have received their Senior Life Saving awards which they will proudly wear on their swim suits this summer.

Owing to Miss Dibble's efforts, a tennis club was formed in 1916. The first club consisted of a few enthusiastic girls while the 1939 tennis club has about five hundred enlisted members, of whom Betty Armstrong is the head coach.

The most recent of girls' sports is indoor baseball, perhaps better known as softball. Since 1926 it has grown in popularity until it has become one of the most popular sports among the young women. The spring round robin tournaments were planned by Lois Black and Esther Rojas.

As a result of her noticing a number of natural leaders among the many girls who came to the park to play hockey, Miss McGlue formed the Erasmus Hall branch of the Leaders' Club. This club is made up of the best girl athletes in the school. Girls applying for membership must be more than "Josie Muscles." They must have an outstanding character rating and a friendly personality as well as leadership ability. Some of the many duties of these girls are: assisting the teachers in various gym classes, managing squad periods, conducting annual field meets, and coaching girls in all the sports given to the girls in Erasmus. It was the Leaders who transformed Gym 57 into a splendid recreation room which now accommodates over one hundred girls a week. Besides all these duties, the Leaders are trained to acquire social poise by acting as hostesses for the Arthur Murray Dance Club. The Leaders elected the following girls, all seniors, to be their officers for this spring term: president, Jean Neubecker; vice-president, Elizabeth Armstrong; secretary, Lois Black. The following is a list of the Leader graduates. Elizabeth Armstrong, Lois Black, Elizabeth Finochio, Shirley Fouts, Sheila Lemont, Dorothy Munson, Jean Neubecker, Sylvia Paret, Rose Perrone, and Esther Rojas. Lorraine Bandeccha and Norma Frugone, who are not in the Leaders' Club, must be mentioned for their outstanding talents in sports.

We thank you, Erasmus, for opening a new vista to us and for teaching us to look on the right side of the tapestry of life. We are most thankful for the greatest of all gifts—the power to lose and take our disappointments gracefully.

Boys' Sports

ATHLETES COME and athletes go, but this year more than ever before, the coaches of the various teams will be a sadder lot after graduation day has passed into history. Some of the most noted athletes will terminate their high school careers on that long-awaited day.

When we started back to school in September, 1938, the football team was already hard at work. We had lost nearly all of our veterans at the June graduation, so the outlook was very bleak. However, those who did not have full faith in our team were in for a great surprise. They had not reckoned with the coaching ability of Mr. Sullivan, nor had they thought of the inspiring leadership of Captain Joe Watt. Least of all had they thought of the spirit and tradition held by Erasmus teams of former years.

This fighting Erasmus Hall football team of 1938 surprised the newspaper writers and proceeded methodically to sweep aside all opposition, weak and strong alike. They beat Manual by such a wide margin (26-0), that the defeats we had suffered at Manual's hands during our Freshman and Junior years were practically forgotten. On they went to greater glory, and when the last whistle had been blown, this light inexperienced team was the proud possessor of the mythical title "City Champs." Who will forget the "Touchdown Twins," Joe Watt and Max Rubenfeld; the blocking and tackling of Morty Rauf; the running of Mike Andreacchi and Dave Feldman; and the line play of Joe MacAvoie, "Red" Fuller, "Doc" Parker, "Killer" Kampf, "Bibbets" Bassinette, Ted Kelly, Burt Beattie, Warren Slavin, and Cy Getzoff?

In October the swimming and basketball teams begin to practice. The swimming coach is the one coach who never has to worry about having his team broken up by graduation. It seems to me that no matter how many members of the squad graduate, there are always more good swimmers coming up from the lower grades to fill in. In thirteen years Erasmus Hall has won the Brooklyn Borough Swimming Championship twelve times. This is a record of which no other school can boast. This past season was completed with an unbroken string of fifty-four meet victories, a striking tribute to the coach, Mr. Mullen, and to the Captain, Dick Grego. Those on the team were:—Wilbur Carlson, Bob Futoran, Robin Black, Bob Krieg, John Bernhardt, Mike Priano, Andy Campolo, Pete Williams, Jim Murphy, and Judah Klein. This year for the first time Erasmus Hall won the Kammrer Trophy, emblematic of the City Championship. We hope that in the future, the new coach, Mr. Bannon, will have as many successful championship teams as Mr. Mullen had in the past.

While the swimming season was going on, basketball was getting under way. This year Coach Badain had a serious problem confronting him. Last year we had won the Brooklyn Division Two Championship and the entire school was clamoring for the performance to be repeated. We had lost all but two of our regulars by graduation and the boys selected were fast and good shots, but, the average height was less than five feet eight inches, a distinct disadvantage in a sport of this type. However, they fought hard in every game and even though they did not win them all, they pulled a few upsets out of the hat and gained a world of experience for next year. The Captain was Ray Rudden, and other members of the team were:—Fred Mayblum, Bernie Mittman, Ira Beardsley, Artie Gurfein, Jerry Fleischman, Al Ross, Eddie Levine, Ray Bernstein, Army Snyder, and Bob Alson.

One of the sports recently revived in Erasmus Hall is fencing. Last year, coached by Mr. Kalman, the team had a very successful season and got as far as the finals in the Round Robin Tournament which determined the City Champions. This year, however, the team was not as fortunate. It lost several of its best foilsmen by graduation; it was not able to procure a coach; and it had to practice in the Student Cafeteria. By dint of much hard plugging by its Captain, Ray Grayefsky, the team was able to enter into competition with the other schools of the borough. Because of its lack of coaching it was slow hitting its stride, but even so, the team was able to finish the season with a record of three victories, three losses and one tie. Others on the team were:—Gene Lee, Bernie Stein, Jim Velasquez, Santo Piluso, and Gene Perlowin. Perlowin lost only one bout during the whole season. Since they will be coached by the very versatile Mr. Resnick next year, we are quite sure that the Erasmus Hall Fencing Team will resume its winning ways and add another feather to the cap of Old Desiderius.

Since the very popular game of football is played at the same time that the soccer team has its season, soccer is forced to take the back seat when it comes to the question of spectators. However, this lack of rooters does not bother the members of the squad a single bit. They play with the same spirit and determination as the boys on the gridiron. Not since 1935, when we lost the Brooklyn Championship to New Utrecht, have we had a team of championship caliber. This year things seemed to look better, and there was hope that we might again invade the ranks of the Champions. However, bad breaks and injuries hampered the potentiality of the team. With all the fine coaching of Mr. Caldwell, the best the team could show for its efforts was one victory, four losses, and three ties. Many of the members of the team graduated in January and more are graduating now. The gaps left by these outstanding athletes will be hard to fill.

Although the cross-country team does not have the interest and following of some of the other sports, the barriers of the team, under the expert tutelage of Coach John Reinhardt, keep plugging along. Last year, for the first time in many years, they succeeded in capturing the Brooklyn Cross-Country Championship. Because of graduation, several of their mainstays were lost. But under co-captains Don O'Leary and Matt Broughton, they staged a sensational comeback. They did not win all of their dual meets, but when it came time for the Brooklyn Championship Meet, they had hit their peak. They were tuned perfectly for the race, and for the second consecutive time, Erasmus Hall came home with the Brooklyn Championship Trophy. Don O'Leary won the meet for us by winning first place. Ed Draney, last year's Captain, finished seventh. The team included: Dick McManus, Maurice Lescroat, Jay McCauley, Louis Diamant, Ian MacKenzie, and Fred Faehndrich.

Closely related to cross-country is track. This team, like others, suffered because of graduation. Last year, we had a fairly good team which went quite far in competition, but Andreacchi and the Feldman twins are gone and it looks like a lean year for the track team. Perhaps Mr. Reinhardt will be able to bring Lady Victory back to his team and restore our track team to its proper place at the top of the list.

Lacrosse, the favorite sport of every "rough and ready" boy, is the game devised by the American Indian. Erasmus Hall High School always had a good Lacrosse team until the sport was tabooed six or seven years ago by the Board of Education. However, there was such a strong demand for its return that in 1938 Erasmus Hall again became one of the competitors in the series of games played by borough schools. Under the watchful eyes of Mr. Rowland, a good team was soon developed. From this team of 1938, Arty Robertson, George Fuller, and Saul Kampf were chosen to be members of the Northern All-Star team which played an All-Star team from the South at Baltimore, Md. This year with Don White, Don Seixas, Warren Slavin, Roy Cahill, Fuller, Kampf, Jacobs, and Gurfein plus Bassinette, Freidlander and others from the football team, the new coach, Mr. Kaasman, should have little trouble in turning out a superlative team.

For several weeks the candidates for the baseball team have been trying to impress the new coach, Mr. Dugan, with their respective talents. Baseball was one sport hard hit by graduation; of last year's regular team, which had little success, there remains only Joe Mele, the pitcher who pitched a no-hit, no-run game. It will be, therefore, a tribute to the coaching ability of Mr. Dugan, and to the cooperation and teamwork of the squad as a whole, if Erasmus Hall returns to its former greatness in this field of endeavor.

In summing up the activities on the field of honor, for the past year, we find that Erasmus Hall has on the whole had a very successful year and that this success was due largely to the efforts of athletes graduating this year.

WHAT

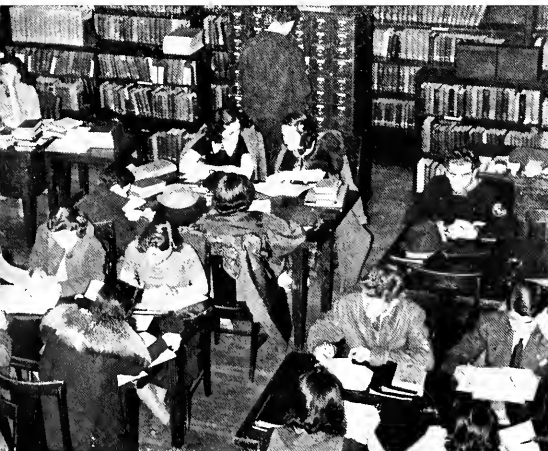

Joe Erasmus has just awakened from a nightmare. As he prepares for school, the dream runs through his head. "Will he graduate?" Only time can tell.

Joe enters the Arch, ready for the day's work. He has completely forgotten that his homework, except for his French, is not prepared. Perhaps there'll be a long Quiet Period. But there are errands to be done.

Joe is seated in his Math class. He's hoping the teacher won't ask him to go to the board. Perhaps there'll be a fire drill to interrupt that awful period. The Math period, like everything else, must end sometime.

The French room has one of the best views of the campus. Our hero has just told a few Freshmen just what he thinks of them. Yes, he feels rather good. What? Paper? No! There must be

During his study period Joe works in the library. He works quite hard in school all day. He has just settled down to do his Chemistry homework—"Can you help me find a translation of the 'Iliad'?" One of those Greek students who can never find anything for himself! Joe helps him find it, but by then the period is almost over. It's no use starting his Chemistry homework now.

Besides there's plenty of time during the lunch period.

At last Joe finds himself in the lunchroom where he can breathe more easily. He greets Mrs. Walker who has been making the lunch periods of Erasmusians pleasant for twenty-eight years. It doesn't take Joe long to finish his lunch. Now to find Johnny and borrow his Chem homework! Joe can't understand how Johnny gets enough a mistake! Lucky the homework's done. Does he pass the test? When the test is over, Joe relaxes for the rest of the period.

Now to Art. He still cannot understand why he's studying art. He certainly can't draw. Oh! well! anything to graduate. Joe isn't in this picture. (No, he didn't cut.) He's outside washing his hands. He always spills the paints.

It's wonderful to be excused from History. Oh yeah? Not when you have to work on the class exhibit for the bulletin board! The history teacher thinks that because Joe studies art he can draw. That accounts for his assignment to this job. Joe's an optimist, though. After his study period he can go to lunch. That's the one period in the day he really enjoys.

time to do his homework. What? Oh, Johnny hasn't done his work! Well, he'll just have to find someone who has. The Chem homework was hard. None of Joe's pals could do it.

As they walk into Chemistry, they all look frightened. What if they should have a test? Fear is soon dispelled, as the teacher begins a demonstration. The period Joe fears most turns out to be the easiest in his whole program.

It is now period eight, the time for all upper classmen to go home. But not Joe! He has to write the radio article for the "Dutchman." Last week he wrote about his favorite band leaders. What'll it be this week? The Editor suggests he write about vocalists. Joe has been writing for two hours, but he has no copy yet. He can think of only three adjectives meaning superb—swell, colossal, and stupendous, none of which will do. It is now five o'clock and Joe is given permission to leave.

What a Life!

Class Prophecy

I SETTLED down comfortably to read my favorite newspaper, The New York Daily Reporter, edited by GERARD ZORNOW—remember him? There on the front page flashed the headlines: ALAN G. SKELLY, American Ambassador to England, delights the British court by singing verses from——yes, Gilbert and Sullivan! CATHERINE WATERS has been appointed the first woman Supreme Court Justice. Her dissenting opinions will probably make history. DOUGLAS DIVINE, Chairman of the Pan-American Conference held at Panama last month, has finally realized his life-long dream of having exchange scholarships between North and South American students. CHARLES MEYERSON is the Chief Statistician of the Census Department. HARRY HONOHAN, Secretary of the Navy, proudly laid the cornerstone today for the new National Academy of Aviation which he founded. Turning over page after page, I came to Fashion News, which announced that its editor, Mademoiselle JEANNE MAC NALLY, will return from Paris this week with the latest spring fashions. On the same page was “Advice to the Loveworn” by Aunt CISSY LOVELACE—but I know the inside story—it’s JAMES (SANDY) MURPHY who gives those understanding tidbits of counsel. I read a favorable review by FRANCES RILEY of the latest play, “Danger, Women at Work?” with PATRICIA TOBIN, ANN KUSHNER, and ALVA SHERMAN in the leading roles. JANET MORE’s latest film, “The Gal from New England,” will open tomorrow. ELEANOR FRAUM will introduce an epoch-making dance craze in her movie “Winged Feet.” No more tickets are available for the Town Hall Dance Recital of CHARLOTTE and LYDIA KREISMAN, since the house has been sold out to modern interpretative dance enthusiasts. MISS ROMA KANTOR, president of l’Alliance Francaise, presented a successful program of French music at Carnegie Hall last night. In the Book Review Section, “Autobiography of a Clubwoman” by SELMA HURWITZ, is considered the best non-fiction book of the month. Then I read “In and Out of New York” by MARION JACOBS and SALLY SPILTON. ELAINE LICHENSTEIN, former Miss America, was named one of the ten best-dressed women in the country. EDITH MC CONVILLE gaily led the Saint Patrick’s Day Parade down Fifth Avenue. ROBERT WOOTERS has started a crazy fad in men’s hats in competition with women’s new Spring chapeaux. SYLVIA PECK and SYLVIA KOPPEL are conducting a series of special courses in music depreciation. The only announcement for the evening on the Radio Page was the President’s Hearthside Chat. I turned on the radio, and heard that inimitable voice of President WILLIAM BRETNALL saying, “My friends———” and then I must have dozed off.
